

Chris Holland FLCM

Chris Holland has been starring in West End musicals for well over twenty years. He was first seen in the legendary original production of Miss Saigon at The Theatre Royal Drury Lane in 1993. He has since gone on to play many iconic roles both in the West End and internationally, appearing in some of the world's greatest musicals including Les Miserables, The Phantom Of The Opera, Dirty Dancing, Joseph And The Amazing Technicolour Dreamcoat, We Will Rock You, Grease, The Official Tribute To The Blues Brothers, The Witches of Eastwick, Whistle Down The Wind, Heathcliff and Titanic. He has created roles in new work such as Rags Ryan in Burlesque and Davy Harrison in The Last Ship with Sting. In 1995 he appeared on Showstoppers for BBC1 airing to over 10million viewers every Sunday evening!

As a highly versatile and sought-after vocalist, Chris is in great demand for concerts and events, headlining with major orchestras and entertaining with his coveted one man show. He is well regarded as a voiceover jingle singer and is a multi-award winner for his work with TalkSport Radio.

Chris has been coaching singing and acting to children, teenagers and adults for over 10 years both privately, and in primary, secondary and performing arts schools. He regularly enters students of all ages for London College of Music exams, and has prepared students for Leaving and Junior Cert practicals. He teaches masterclasses and workshops all over Ireland and has worked at Vocational Colleges in the UK. He runs his own dance and theatre school Leotards and Monologues in Dublin.

In 2013 Chris was awarded a prestigious Fellowship of The London College of Music

He is delighted to be joining the music department at St Andrew's College where he can draw on his wealth of performing and teaching experience as he works with the students.
